NOTE

A CATALOGUE of the European and American paintings in the Museum was undertaken nearly ten years ago by M. Jean Guiffrey, then Curator of Paintings here, now Conservateur des Peintures in the Musées du Louvre. He wrote descriptions of the more important paintings, and collected many data for the catalogue. His work was translated into English by Mr. Richard Norton; later the translation was revised and many more descriptions added by Mr. Morris Carter. With the constant aid of Mrs. Grafton L. (Dorothy Usher) Wilson, I have revised and in part rewritten the material thus available, and have completed the work. For the attributions and for many useful suggestions Mr. John Briggs Potter, Keeper of Paintings, is responsible.

The book is published in a preliminary edition, not as a definitive catalogue of paintings, for two reasons: first, in the hope that it may be useful as it stands to visitors and to students generally; secondly, to serve as the basis for a scholarly catalogue when the opportunity may come for its preparation. It includes all the paintings that are regarded as of any importance for the student of paintings; about half of them are ordinarily on exhibition, while the remainder may be seen on request.

ARTHUR FAIRBANKS,
Director of the Museum.

CATALOGUE OF PAINTINGS

PRELIMINARY EDITION

ITALIAN

ANGELICO, FRA: real name GUIDO or GUIDOLINO DI PIETRO; religious name FRA GIOVANNI DA FIESOLE; also called IL BEATO. Florentine. Born, Vicchio di Mugello, 1387; died, Rome, 1455.

MADONNA AND CHILD WITH ANGELS AND SAINTS. I

The Madonna enthroned on a dais beneath a canopy diapered in red and gold (a blue mantle over her red dress) holding the Child (a transparent veil about His legs) who leans to the left to bless the kneeling donor; the donor (full pink surplice and ermine scarf) is presented by St. Peter (yellow mantle over blue tunic) who stands behind him, in front of St. Paul (red robe). At the right St. George (pink tabard over armor), holding his banner with his right hand and his sword with his left. At either side of the Virgin's throne, two angels (two en face in red, two in profile in blue robes). Dark green background covered with small flowers and plants in light yellow-green.

BARNABA DA MODENA. Influenced by the Siense School. Fl. 1367-1383.

MADONNA AND CHILD. 2

tioningly in His mother's face, His right arm resting on her shoulder, and in His right hand He holds a corner of her white veil; He wears a gold tunic and a red mantle with gold spots and a gold border; a piece of coral is fastened at His neck. The Madonna wears a dress of a duller red with patterns of gold at neck and wrists, and over this a mantle of very dark green with designs in gold and covered with fine gold lines; on her halo is written AVE GRATIA PLENA DOMINUS TECU[M]. Elaborately tooled gold background.

Inv. 15.951. Panel: H. 0.991 (39 in.). W. 0.635 (25 in.). Gift of Mrs. Walter Scott Fitz, 1915.

Collection of Langton Douglas. M. F. A. Bulletin, XIII (1915), p. 83, illus.

BARTOLO DI FREDI. Sienese. Born, Siena, cir. 1330; died there, 1410. Follower of the Lorenzetti.

3 REREDOS.

Central panel: Death and Assumption of the Virgin. In the lower part, the Virgin, wrapped in a blue mantle and white veil, lies upon a bier covered with a brocaded gold cloth. The Apostles (robes of gold, red, light blue, pale rose-pink) surround her in lamentation; one of them holds a new-born babe representing the soul of the Virgin; St. John, seen from behind, kneels in the foreground. Near the Apostles stand angels (robes of white, or of brocaded gold) holding candles and censers, or supporting the cloth on which the Virgin lies. Above in a mandorla, surrounded by angels and cherubim (robes of blue, red, pale pink, green, brocaded gold), the Virgin sits draped in a mantle of brocaded gold. In the pediment the bust of Christ, full face, in the attitude of benediction.

Left panel: St. Peter with key (blue tunic, brown mantle), and a bishop in his robes; full-length figures. Above, the heads and shoulders of two prophets (blue tunics, red mantles). In the pediment an angel.

Right panel: St. Augustine (richly brocaded robe) and St. Bonaventura (blue tunic, rose-pink mantle), full-length figures, each carrying a red book; above, the heads and shoulders of two prophets. In the pediment an angel.

Inv. 83.175. Panels with frame: H. 2.731 (107½ in.). W. 2.026 (79¾ in.). Gift of Martin Brimmer, 1883.

BARTOLOMMEO, FRA: real name BARTOLOMMEO DI PAGOLO DEL FATTORINO; sometimes called BACCIO DELLA PORTA. Florentine. Born in or near Florence, 1475; died, Florence, 1517. Pupil of Cosimo Roselli, but much influenced by Perugino.

HOLY FAMILY WITH ST. ANNE AND THE INFANT ST. JOHN. 4

The Virgin is seated on the ground wearing a pale red dress and blue-green mantle; she looks up at St. Anne, who sits under a dull green canopy. With her left hand the Virgin supports the little St. John, while the infant Christ leans against a cushion in front of her, reaching toward His cousin. St. Joseph is seated on the ground to the left below St. Anne. Landscape background at the right.

Inv. 11.1263. Panel: H. 1.46 (57½ in.). W. 1.085 (42¾ in.). Purchased in Italy in 1842 by Edward Everett for Peter Chardon Brooks. Gift of Mary Ogden Adams and Charles Francis Adams, 1911.

BASAITI, MARCO. Venetian. Fl. 1490-1521. Pupil of Alvise Vivarini and of Cima da Conegliano.

PIETÀ.

On the knees of the Virgin, who wears a violet dress, blue mantle and white veil, lies the dead Christ; His head is supported by St. John (black tunic, rose-pink mantle) at the left, and one leg is held by the Magdalen (green dress), who kneels between two women in lamentation (at left with green dress and brown veil; at right with red dress, brown mantle and violet veil). Behind this group at the left stands Joseph of Arimathea (blue tunic, green undertunic, red apron) holding the crown of thorns, and near him a man (red tunic, brown cloak) with outspread arms seems to be rolling back the door to the tomb.

Inv. 90.201. Panel: H. 0.56 (22 in.). W. 0.652 (25 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.). Gift of Edward Perry Warren, 1890.

BASSANO, GIACOMO: real name JACOPO DA PONTE. Venetian. Born, Bassano, 1510; died there, 1592. Pupil of his father, Francesco da Ponte; influenced by Bonifazio Veronese and Titian.

6 ECCE HOMO.

Christ crowned with thorns, half enveloped in a magenta mantle, is seated in profile on a platform at the right. Three guards insult and strike him; one of them hands him a reed. In the right foreground stand a soldier and a page; behind at the left, an old man and a woman. On the roof of a building above them is a cock; on a balcony over the centre, two women are drying linen.

Inv. 01.6. Canvas: H. 1.882 (74 $\frac{1}{8}$ in.). W. 1.372 (54 in.). Anonymous gift, 1901.

MEMMI, LIPPO. Sieneſe. Died, 1356?. Brother-in-law and collaborator of Simone Martini.

34 MARRIAGE OF ST. CATHERINE; attributed to Lippo Memmi.

Against a gold background enclosed by a border design in black and red, the large figures of Christ and St. Catherine stand, at right and left, on a narrow red platform which separates the main picture from three smaller scenes, forming a ſort of predella. St. Catherine at the left extends her right hand toward the Christ who places the ring on her fourth finger; in her left hand ſhe holds a black book and a palm branch; ſhe wears a white tunic covered with an elaborate design in red and gold and a crimson mantle lined with white; her golden hair is crowned with a jewelled diadem and her name is inſcribed at the ſides of her halo. The Christ wears a black mantle over a crimson tunic, and with His left hand holds a ſcarlet-covered book; His halo is divided by the cross.

In the ſpace between theſe two figures, is a group painted on a very much ſmaller ſcale: on a ſettle, decorated with geometric patterns in intarsia, the Christ child ſtands between the ſeated Virgin and St. Anne. He is dressed in a rich gold brocade, and looks toward St. Anne who offers Him a roſe; a little bird is perched on His outſtretched right hand.

The predella is divided into three ſections: at the left, St. Margaret (red robe) and the Devil; at the right, St. Michael (embossed white robe and pink mantle) and the dragon; in the centre, two young noblemen in rich garments, who have thrown down their weapons and embrace each other, under the influence of an angel who stands behind them with wings outspread and one hand resting on the back of each young man. On the edge of the red platform is written Arico di Neri Arighetti fece fare questa tavola, "Arico di Neri Arighetti had this picture made."

THE ANNUNCIATION.

At the right stands the Virgin, her bowed head turned slightly to the left, her hands pressed against her heart as she makes obeisance to the angel; she wears a crimson tunic, a blue mantle and a white veil. In the centre under an open casement, a massive table, on which the Virgin's book rests against a crimson velvet cushion. At the left, the angel half kneeling, his left hand stretched toward the Virgin, his right forearm raised; he has golden curls and crimson wings, and wears a gold-brown tunic over a light blue garment and a white shirt, the voluminous sleeves of which are rolled back at his elbows; in the clouds above him are four cherubs. The upper half of the picture is suffused with a golden radiance, concealing the walls of the room; in the centre of this radiance appears the white dove of the Holy Spirit; above is a floating figure of God the Father, in a magenta drapery, His head toward the right; two cherubs at the extreme right help Him support a large crystal sphere.

ST. LUKE MAKING A PORTRAIT OF THE VIRGIN.

At the right St. Luke kneels, dressed in a dull red garment lined with fur and a brown cap; in his left hand he holds his tablet; he gazes earnestly at the Virgin, who is seated at the left on a Gothic throne under a canopy of red and gold brocade. She wears a dress of gold brocade, a greenish robe lined with fur, and a dark, green-blue mantle. She is offering her breast to the Child. In an alcove at the right the head of St. Luke's ox is seen. Beyond a colonnade at the back is a garden, with two people leaning over a parapet and looking out on a river lined with buildings.

Inv. 93.153. Panel: H. 1.38 (54½ in.). W. 1.11 (43¾ in.). Gift of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Higginson, 1893.

Collection of Don Pedro de Bórdon, Duque de Dúrcal; Sale, New York, 1889, no. 67. A school replica exists in the Pinakothek, Munich (see Catalogue, 1911, p. 178, no. 100); other replicas are in the Hermitage Gallery, Petrograd, in the Convent of Santa Trinidad, Madrid, and in Count Wilczek's collection, Vienna. Of a picture attributed to Thierry Bouts, owned by Lord Penrhyn, exhibited in 1911 at the Grafton Gallery Exhibition of Old Masters (no. 92), the catalogue, edited by Roger E. Fry and Maurice W. Brockwell says (p. 87) "The prototype of this picture is in the Museum of Boston, and is better known by the copy in the Munich Gallery. If, as seems likely, the present work is by Aelbert Bouts (fl. 1473-1549) the Boston picture may be by Dirck Bouts." The Louvre possesses a fifteenth century tapestry after this picture.

Inv. 09.184. Canvas: H. 2.275 ($89\frac{1}{2}$ in.). W. 1.585 ($62\frac{3}{8}$ in.). Gift of Francis Bartlett, 1909.

Originally attributed to Velazquez, and considered a portrait of Henry de Halmale. It was bought in Flanders from a descendant of Halmale by Mr. Thomas Purves, at whose sale in London (June, 1849), it passed into the hands of T. P. Smith. Exhibited at Manchester in 1857. Collection of Madame de Falbe; Sale, Christie's, May 19, 1900, still attributed to Velazquez. Stirling-Maxwell's Annals of Artists of Spain, 1891, IV, p. 1585. Curtis: Velazquez and Murillo, 1883, pp. 68-69, no. 162. In a letter dated "Anvers le 9 Novembre 1901," Max Rooses expressed his conviction that the picture was by Peter Thys. Ascribed to Carel Fabritius by J. O. Kronig and Carl Bredius, 1913 (M. F. A. Bulletin, XI, 1913, p. 70, illus.) and by them believed not to be a portrait of Henry de Halmale.

167 TWO SAINTS.

Two bare-footed saints in partial profile stand facing each other in a church paved with marble; behind them is stretched a drapery of green and gold brocade, above which is seen the rounded top of an ogival window. The saint at the left wears a green tunic and red cloak, and holds a glaive in his right hand; the one at the right wears a dark blue tunic and gray cloak and holds an open book in his right hand and a spear in his left hand.

Inv. 07.646. Panel: H. 0.48 (18 $\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 0.325 (12 $\frac{3}{4}$ in.). Gift of Denman Waldo Ross, 1907. (Purchased from Julius Böhler, Berlin.)

MEISTER VON S. SEVERIN. So-called from an altarpiece by him, dedicated to St. Severin in Cologne, of which only the wings remain in that city.

168 TRIPTYCH.

Central panel: Calvary. In the centre Christ on the cross; in the foreground the Magdalen (yellow brocade dress, red mantle) kneels, embracing the cross; at the left the Virgin (blue tunic and mantle) faints in the arms of St. John (red robe), a holy woman (brown brocade dress and green mantle) helping to support her; behind, another holy woman kneels in prayer. At the right and left, behind the cross are horsemen, sumptuously dressed, and soldiers; among them St. Longinus with his spear, and a soldier holding a long rod with the sponge; at the sides are the dying thieves; in the corners of the foreground kneel the donors: on the left in silver armor, Konrad von Eynenberg, Herr zu Landskron und Drimborn; on the right in a dull red cloak, his wife, Margaretha von Nesselrode-Hugenpoet; in front of each of them, their coat of arms. In the middle distance, various scenes from the life of Christ are represented: at the left Christ in the Garden of Gethsemane, Christ bearing the cross, and the entry into Jerusalem; on the right, the Walk to Emmaus, Christ appearing to the Magdalen, the Resurrection, and the Ascension. In the background, Jerusalem, blue hills and a gold sky.

Right wing, inside: Baptism of Christ. Christ stands in the Jordan, His hands joined in prayer; at the right on the bank, St. John (light brown tunic, red mantle) holding a book in his left hand, and with his right, pouring water over the head of Christ; an angel (brown robe over pale blue) kneeling on the left bank holds His light brown garment; above the group appear God the Father and the Holy Spirit between two adoring angels. In the background, in a mountainous landscape, two scenes from the life of St. John are represented: his preaching in the wilderness, and his meeting with Christ.

On the outside of the wings are represented four saints standing on a terrace paved with marble; behind them is a wall covered with a rich brocade. On the left wing are St. Christopher (dull red cloak over short brown brocade tunic) with the Child on his shoulder, and the Virgin (white cloak over a dark blue dress) with the Child in her arms; at the feet of these saints respectively, a woman and a man kneel in prayer, facing to the right; between them is the inscription ANNO D \ddot{M} . The date which should have appeared on the other wing was omitted. On the right wing are St. John the Baptist (light-brown tunic and red mantle), holding a lamb on a book, and St. Agnes (yellow dress and green cloak), her neck pierced by a sword, a palm branch in her right hand; at their feet kneel a man and a woman, turned to the left.

Inv. 12.169. Panels: H. 1.28 (50½ in.). W. of middle panel, 2.18 (85¾ in.). W. of wing panels, 0.93 (39⅛ in.). Purchased, Picture Fund, 1912.

Painted in 1511 for the chapel of St. Gertrude at Schloss Eller near Düsseldorf. In 1887 Dr. Bode found it in the possession of a dealer in Paris, and in a letter dated May 17, 1887, called it "ein hauptwerk des Kölner Meister Sankt Severin." Collection of Consul Weber, Hamburg; Sale, Berlin, Feb. 20, 1912, no. 62 of the Catalogue. The wings were exhibited at the Kunsthistorische Ausstellung, Düsseldorf, 1904 (no. 47), reproduced in the book on this exhibition by Paul Clemen and Ed. Firmenich-Richartz, Munich, 1905, pl. 15. The centre and the wings are also reproduced in Scheibler and Aldenhoven: Geschichte der Kölner Malerschule; Lübeck, 1896, III, pl. 93,95.

THE DEATH OF THE VIRGIN.

The Virgin (dark blue-green robe and white veil) lies on a bed covered with a red drapery, her hands crossed and her back supported by a cushion; over her is a canopy of green and gold brocade. At the left are three apostles, two (olive-green mantles) standing and conversing, the third (red mantle over gray-blue tunic) kneeling at the foot of the bed, his hands clasped fervently. At the right are the rest of the apostles; in the background, St. John (red mantle) holds a palm leaf before the Virgin; one next him (gold brocade mantle over pale rose-pink tunic) raises his hand in benediction; behind stands one without a halo, probably Matthias, the successor of Judas; then an apostle (brown mantle) with his hands raised in adoration, and one at the foot of the bed (green mantle over red), kneeling and reading the prayers for the dying, then a group of three, one (red and green robe) carrying the aspergillum with holy water, the second (red mantle over dark green tunic) kindling a censer, the third carrying a processional cross; the twelfth apostle (brown brocade tunic and lavender cape lined with brown) is seated in the foreground, putting on his glasses to read from a book which he holds open on his knee. On either side of the canopy is a window with landscape view.

On the predella are the kneeling figures of Hartwig Volkamer and his wife Hedwig Tucher; behind each one is the family coat of arms, and between them, in gothic letters on a white background is the following inscription:

NACH CHRISTI GEBURT 1479, AM

THREE SAINTS.

173

Three full-length figures: on the left St. George, clad in armor and a red cloak, stands on the dragon, down whose throat he thrusts his spear. In the middle is St. Michael, in a white tunic and a green cloak with a band of gold braid around the upper edges and red fringe on the bottom; his wings are brown and yellow; he holds with his left hand a pair of scales, in the heavier scalepan a naked soul over which he pours holy water from a covered ewer; a writhing devil is trying to pull down the other pan in which are a tower, a mountain, and bags of money. On the right is St. John, clad in a brown sheep-skin and a very light brown cloak; in his left hand he holds a book bound in black, on which rests the Lamb, to which the saint points with his right hand; the Lamb supports the staff of a banner which is red with a white cross. The names of the saints are written in their halos.

295 THE HOMESTEAD AT GRÉVILLE.

On the left a wall overgrown with vines in front of tall trees; beyond it along the village street is a two-storied house, illuminated by the setting sun, and a second house mainly in shadow. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 93.1461. Canvas: H. 0.597 (23½ in.). W. 0.737 (29 in.). Gift of Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Frothingham, 1893.

296 THE KNITTING LESSON.

A mother leans over her little daughter guiding her hands as she teaches her to knit; the mother sits near a window, wearing a pink waist, a dark brown skirt covered with a gray apron, and a cap, a heavy woolen garment across her lap; the child, wearing a dark brown skirt, blue pinafore, and brown cap, sits on a low chair close beside her mother's knee. On the window sill is a work basket and a pincushion; high up on the wall by the window is a clock; against the wall at the back is a low cupboard, on which is a pile of linen; on the wall over the cupboard hang three flatirons. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 06.2423. Canvas: H. 0.457 (18 in.). W. 0.38 (15 in.). Bequest of Mrs. Martin Brimmer, 1906.

Lent by Mr. Brimmer to the Boston Athenaeum for its 28th exhibition, 1855, no. 78 of the catalogue, where it is called "An Interior." Similar pictures exist in the Vanderbilt Collection at the Metropolitan Museum, New York, and in the Quincy Adams Shaw Collection, infra, no. 317. See Sensier, pp. 319-321.

297 WOMAN MILKING A COW.

In a green field near a hedge a woman is seated on the ground, milking a red cow; on the other side of the hedge a field stretches away over a hill to the farmhouse; near the top of the hill cows and sheep are grazing. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 76.2. Canvas: H. 0.596 (23½ in.). W. 0.736 (29 in.). Gift of Martin Brimmer, 1876. Sketch for a picture in the collection of Mrs. Horatio Nelson Slater, Boston.

WASHERWOMEN.

298

A woman standing on a rock by a river piles linen on the shoulders of a second woman; on a bar near them is more linen, and on the ground are two bottles and a basket; farther off to the right a third woman has started for home carrying a large water jar. On the river is a fisherman in a boat; dimly seen on the farther bank are trees, and a line of cows wending their way home; the new moon is shining in the evening sky. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 06.2422. Canvas: H. 0.42 (16½ in.). W. 0.52 (20½ in.). Bequest of Mrs. Martin Brimmer, 1906.

Lent by Mr. Brimmer to the Boston Athenaeum for its 35th exhibition, 1860, no. 35 in the catalogue.

PORTRAIT OF THE ARTIST.

299

Head and shoulders, in three-quarter view to the right; long black hair, black beard and moustache; he wears a black coat buttoned up to his chin, with black velvet collar. Dark gray-green background. Painted at the time of his first marriage, when he was twenty-seven years old.

See Sensier, p. 99.

GIRL TENDING SHEEP.

300

Leaning against a large rock at the right and shaded by high bushes is a girl knitting; she wears a blue skirt, a lighter blue apron and cap, and a large light brown cape with a dark brown hood; her staff leans against the rock; in the middle distance at the left a flock of sheep is grazing, and far off in the background two peasants are tilling a field. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 13.465. Canvas: H. 0.355 (14 in.). W. 0.27 (10⅝ in.). Bequest of Mrs. Edward Wheelwright, 1913.

SHEPHERDESS.

A young girl sitting on a large rock in a pasture, her right leg drawn up on the rock; she wears a light blue-gray skirt, a waist which is a darker shade of the same color and a broad-brimmed hat; in her left hand she holds her distaff across her lap, in her right hand a switch; a lamb is wandering away to the right, and the head of another appears at the left; in the background is a wide stretch of sunlit country. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

PAINTINGS

A young peasant striding to the right, sowing grain; he wears a soft hat pulled down over his forehead, a dull red blouse and blue breeches; his lower legs are wrapped in straw; a drab seed-bag is tied around his waist and over his left shoulder, and a loose side falls over his left arm; his right arm is extended to the left, scattering the seed. In the background at the left, a flock of crows is descending; at the right, a man is driving a team of oxen hitched to a harrow over the brow of the hill; they are enveloped in the rosy light of the dawn, while the sower and the ploughed field are still in shadow. Signed in the lower left corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1498. Canvas: H. 1.016 (40 in.). W. 0.825 (32½ in.).

The original "Sower," painted in 1850, the year after Millet went to Barbizon. See Sensier, pp. 123-126. M. F. A. Bulletin, XVI (1918), p. 11, illus.

THE END OF THE VILLAGE OF GRÉVILLE, OVERLOOKING THE SEA. 305

At the left, part of a stone house beside a rough village road; three geese are in the road, one stretching its neck in at the open door; at the right of the door are a child's armchair, the mother's chair, and a spinning wheel. The mother has taken the child across the road to look out at the ocean, which extends to the horizon on the right; she is holding the child up on top of a short stone wall near an old elm "gnawed by the wind"; on the farther side of the wall is a thatched shed and a pile of fagots. In the foreground at the extreme right is a swift little brook, bridged by a large flat stone on which two geese are standing; other geese and ducks are feeding in the brook. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1497. Canvas: H. 0.815 (32½ in.). W. 1.003 (39½ in.).

THE END OF THE VILLAGE OF GRÉVILLE.

306

Study for the preceding; cooler and slightly less atmospheric; the geese on the stone bridge and the child's chair are omitted; the spinning wheel is set squarely in front of the mother's chair, and other minor details are different. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1482. Canvas: H. 0.465 (18¼ in.). W. 0.56 (22 in.).

307 PLANTING POTATOES.

A man and his wife, facing each other, are planting potatoes in a ploughed and harrowed field; he stands at the left, bending over and holding with both hands the mattock laden with the earth he has just removed from the hole into which his wife is dropping two potatoes; he wears a felt hat, a vest with pink fronts, white shirt, and drab trousers; his wife wears a gray-blue cap, a sleeveless violet jacket over a white waist, blue oversleeves, a blue skirt, and an apron in which she carries the potatoes. Just behind the potato field is a cabbage patch, across which there is a row of apple trees; in the shade of the nearest tree a donkey is tied and his two panniers are standing on the ground; in one, bedded on straw, sleeps a baby. A level plain stretches away to a village on the horizon enveloped in the hazy atmosphere of a warm, sunny day. Signed in the lower right corner: F. Millet. Painted in 1861-1862.

Inv. 17.1485. Canvas: H. 0.825 (32½ in.). W. 1.012 (39¾ in.).

308 SKETCH: TWO RECLINING FIGURES (Hagar and Ishmael?)

A youth, half reclining, supports himself on his right elbow; his head is turned in profile to the right; his hands are clasped; he wears a blue cap, a white shirt open so as to leave the right shoulder bare, a brown scarf knotted around his shoulders, and gray-blue trousers; the seated woman behind him, a less finished figure, is earnestly addressing the youth; she wears a red-brown mantle and hood.

Inv. 17.1505. Canvas: H. 0.72 (28¾ in.). W. 1.0 (39¾ in.).

309 THE BUCKWHEAT HARVEST.

In the foreground a woman is loading a hand barrow with sheaves which are being brought to her by a second woman. Behind the latter are a man and a woman carrying a loaded barrow toward the pile of sheaves in the background; farther off two other women are carrying toward it sacks stuffed with sheaves. In the background are men swinging their flails around the threshing floor; a woman supplies them with grain from the pile at the right; at the left is a pile of chaff which two women are feeding to a bonfire. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

WATERING THE COW.

A woman has brought her old red cow down to the river for her evening drink; the woman stands at the water's edge leaning forward on her staff and holding in her outstretched right hand the rope that is attached to the cow's left horn; she wears a gray-blue hooded cape, a bright green-blue waist and a brown skirt. Some geese, at the left, are rushing out of the water and running over the hill in the background; a white crescent moon is in the cloudy sky. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1486. Canvas: H. 0.813 (32 in.). W. 1.003 (39 $\frac{1}{2}$ in.).

WATERING THE COW.

311

Study for the preceding; the hour is not so late, the rosy tints of sunset still fill the sky, the river bank is not so high, and there are no geese. In the background at the left is a large barn and near it are trees and bushes; the woman wears a light greenish hooded cape, dark brown waist and blue skirt. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

314 THE WATCHERS.

In a room dimly lighted by a lamp suspended from a pole, two women sit sewing; the one under the lamp in front view wears a rose-colored cap, buff waist, and dull-brown skirt, and is mending a white skirt; her companion, who sits facing her, wears a brown cap and skirt and a blue waist; she is darning a buff-colored skirt; on a rush-bottomed stool beside them are a pincushion and a ball of darning cotton. At the left is a high bed with blue curtains, on the wall near it a clock, and high up at the right a rack into which garments have been thrown. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1501. Panel: H. 0.351 (13 $\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 0.27 (10 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.).

315 WOMAN MENDING.

In a room dimly lighted by a lamp suspended from an upright pole, a woman is mending a thick white woolen shirt; she wears a dark gray-blue cap, a bright blue waist, and drab skirt; on the other side of the light a baby is asleep in his crib; in the background is a curtained bed. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1502. Panel: H. 0.34 (13 $\frac{3}{8}$ in.). W. 0.273 (10 $\frac{3}{4}$ in.).

316 WOMAN SPINNING.

A young woman spinning wool; she stands at the right of the high wheel, which she turns by a crank with her right hand, while with her left she twists the thick yarn which is being wound on the spindle; some rolls of carded wool lie on a shelf attached to the bench; she wears a light blue cap, buff woolen waist, dull red sleeveless jacket, brown skirt, and large gray apron. On the floor under the wheel is a basket of carded wool; in the background at the left is a cupboard, at the right two full sacks stand on the floor below a shelf. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1401. Canvas: H. 0.463 (18 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.). W. 0.387 (15 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.).

THE KNITTING LESSON.

A mother leans over her little daughter, guiding her hands as she teaches her to knit. The mother, seated by a window, wears a white cap, a brown waist, a bluish-gray apron and a dull red skirt; the child, seated by her mother's knee, wears a pink cap, and a dark brown dress almost covered by a bright blue pinafore; the stocking she is making is dull red. On the window ledge at the left are some gray garments; in the background is a low cupboard, on which are a copper coffee pot and a pile of linen; just in front of the cupboard a white cat is lapping milk out of a white plate; in a rack on a wooden shutter above the cupboard are three spoons; the floor is of red tiles. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1493. Panel: H. 0.403 (15 $\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 0.316 (12 $\frac{7}{16}$ in.). Compare no. 296, supra.

GIRL SPINNING.

318

A girl in profile to the left sits before her wheel spinning; she wears a white cap and waist, a blue bodice and little black shawl, a dull violet skirt, yellowish-gray apron, blue stockings, and felt slippers; a cat is asleep under her chair. On the wall at the right is a rack filled with dishes; the wooden shutters are closed over the window of the wall behind her. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1489. Canvas: H. 0.35 (13 $\frac{3}{4}$ in.). W. 0.267 (10 $\frac{1}{2}$ in.).

319 SHEPHERDESS.

A young shepherdess seated in sunlight on a bank beside a road through a dark forest; in her left hand she holds the end of her long staff; she wears a white cap, a large yellowish-brown hooded cape, and an apron of the same color which almost entirely covers her skirt; a blue garment lies along her right knee, and a little of her red waist is visible at her neck and wrists. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1503. Canvas: H. 0.324 (12 $\frac{3}{4}$ in.). W. 0.245 (9 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.).

320 THE COOPER.

In a dimly lighted shed a man in profile to the right is driving hoops into place on a huge cask; he holds a block with his left hand against the hoop and the mallet in his raised right hand; he wears a bright blue blouse, white trousers, a big brown apron, loose slippers, and no socks; two hoops lean against the barrel at the right; at the left is a chopping block, in which a big pruning knife is stuck. Signed in the lower left corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1492. Canvas: H. 0.465 (17 $\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 0.387 (15 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.).

321 SHEARING SHEEP.

Before an open, thatched shed partly filled with hay, a young woman is shearing a sheep; the sheep lies on the bottom of an inverted tub, its legs firmly held by an old man; the man is dressed in blue, with a large hat pulled down over his eyes; the young woman wears a white cap and waist, with a buff-gray sleeveless jacket, and light blue oversleeves, a red skirt turned up to her waist, showing the drab lining, and a violet-gray underskirt; on the ground behind her lies the sheep whose turn comes next, its legs already tied; the rest of the flock press against the picket fence which separates them from the shearing place. In the background is a large stone barn, behind which are poplar trees. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1504. Canvas: H. 0.41 (16 $\frac{1}{8}$ in.). W. 0.244 (9 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.).

Probably painted in 1853, the first sketch for the large Tondeuse, exhibited in the Salon of 1861, now owned by Richard M. Saltonstall.

IN THE VINEYARD.

322

In a field of vines sloping up toward the left a peasant, dressed in brown, with a soft hat pulled down over his eyes, is tying a grape vine to a stake; a few stakes lie on the ground beside him; a younger man somewhat farther off is driving in a stake with a mallet; in the distance on the brow of the hill a young woman is tending two cows. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

A young woman half reclining beside a pool, her head at the right; she supports herself on her elbow, which rests on a little mound by the edge of the pool; she wears a white garment which has fallen off her left shoulder, exposing her left breast; a brown drapery covers her legs; dark greenish-brown background. Signed in the lower left corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1483. Canvas: H. 0.187 ($7\frac{3}{8}$ in.). W. 0.33 (13 in.).

327 DAY DREAMS.

A young woman sitting on a grassy bank; she is turned toward the left, her head in profile supported by her right hand, her right elbow resting on the ground; a distaff lies across her lap and in her left hand she holds a spindle; she wears a white cap, a light blue waist with a brown shawl tied loosely about her shoulders, and a red brown skirt; her feet are bare. In the background at the right, the lower part of two big trees; at the left, blue sky. Signed in the lower left corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1496. Panel: H. 0.225 ($8\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 0.163 ($6\frac{3}{8}$ in.).

328 PRIORY OF VAUVILLE, NORMANDY.

A high stone wall surrounds the stone building of the Priory, which is situated just over the brow of a hill beside the sea; the gate which gives entrance to the Priory yard is being held open by a peasant woman to let a team of oxen pass through; an overturned harrow lies on the bank beside the gate; the uneven, stony ground of the hill is broken by rough cart roads; at the extreme left is a peasant seated on the ground; behind him, coming over the brow of the hill, is a peasant driving a horse. In the background, the sea extends to the distant horizon. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1506. Canvas: H. 0.895 ($35\frac{1}{4}$ in.). W. 1.164 ($45\frac{7}{8}$ in.).

This picture was painted at Mr. Shaw's request in 1872-1874, the subject having been selected by him from Millet's drawings. See Sensier, pp. 348-349, 362-363.

CLIFFS OF GRUCHY.

Beyond the top of a little rocky promontory, "la falaise de Gruchy," stretches the broad ocean, calm and smooth beneath a sky saturated with light and vapor; in a little cove at the right, two men in a rowboat; gulls are circling about the rocks and two sheep are browsing at the edge of the cliff, the back of one and the head of the other being visible; in a little hollow, behind a boulder, are some geese. Signed at the bottom, at the right of the centre: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1518. Pastel: H. 0.315 (12 $\frac{3}{8}$ in.). W. 0.457 (18 in.).

331 STABLES OF MILLET'S HOUSE AT GRUCHY.

At the right, part of a thatched stone building; in the centre, a conically-roofed well-house connected with it; and at the left, a garden with trees enclosed by a vine-covered wall. At the bottom of a flight of steps separating barn from garden sits a woman scattering grain from her apron to a flock of chickens. Scattered geese and hens feeding in the road in front. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1517. Pastel: H. 0.321 (12 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.). W. 0.431 (17 in.).

332 FARMSTEAD.

In the centre a high building with a circular tower behind a country road; a luxuriant vine covers most of the tower and the upper part of the adjacent wall at the right. Beyond the building at the left a low stone wall and trees line the road; a man sitting sideways on a farm horse, leading another horse, has just come through the opening in the high wall at the right of the building; in the foreground geese and hens are running about. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1510. Pastel: H. 0.345 (13 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.). W. 0.455 (17 $\frac{7}{8}$ in.).

333 THE LITTLE GOOSE GIRL.

A green pasture leading up to barns in the centre, at the right of which is a spreading oak. In the foreground at the left a little girl, holding a green switch in her hands, sits on a low bank beside a duck run; three or four ducks are waddling down to a little pool in the foreground at the right; a duck is feeding at the edge of the pool, and others are sleeping in the shade of the bushes which overhang the farther side. Signed in the lower left corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1524. Pastel: H. 0.417 (16 $\frac{3}{8}$ in.). W. 0.52 (20 $\frac{1}{2}$ in.).

334 THE PATH THROUGH THE WHEAT.

A man with a mattock over his left shoulder is walking along a narrow path through the shoulder-high wheat toward the farm buildings whose roofs and gables are seen in the background; the wheat field rises to a knoll at the left; at the extreme right in front of the lowest building is a pine tree. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1528. Pastel: H. 0.403 ($15\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 0.51 ($20\frac{1}{16}$ in.).

TRAINING GRAPE VINES.

335

A peasant in a bright blue shirt and darker trousers is training grape vines on a wattled fence; the gate, at the right, stands open and nearly opposite it is an apple tree, not yet in bloom; beyond is a high wall enclosing an orchard; conspicuous above the top of the wall at the left is a pear tree covered with white blossoms; a brown field in the background slopes up to a line of leafless trees on the horizon.

Inv. 17.1516. Pastel: H. 0.44 ($17\frac{5}{16}$ in.). W. 0.642 ($25\frac{1}{4}$ in.).

SUNSET — WATERING HORSES.

A young peasant, his trousers rolled up to his knees, has ridden a gray farm horse out into a broad stream for a drink; he is looking back toward the right and with his left hand holds the halter ropes of two more horses, the nigh one a chestnut, the off one a gray, which stand at the water's edge; the sky is filled with a golden light of the afterglow. Signed at the bottom, at the right of the centre: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1530. Pastel: H. 0.377 ($14\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 0.478 ($18\frac{13}{16}$ in.).

PEASANT GIRL WITH COWS.

337

A peasant girl, wearing a brown hood and cape and a blue skirt, stands in profile to the left, holding in her right hand the halter ropes of two cows, the front one red, the other gray-white; the cows are both cropping the short grass; the level pasture which extends to the distant horizon, is broken by a clump of trees at the right. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1523. Pastel: H. 0.292 (11½ in.). W. 0.47 (18½ in.).

338 WATERING THE COWS.

In the foreground, on the bank of a winding river, stand four cows, attended by a young peasant woman who stands at the left, holding a long stick in both hands; she wears a pink bodice over her waist and an apron which almost covers her blue skirt; on the farther side of the river the land rises gently to a thick growth of tall bare trees; a white crescent moon, partly shrouded by a soft haze, hangs in the west. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1527. Pastel: H. 0.308 (12¼ in.). W. 0.465 (18⅝ in.).

339 THE NEW-BORN LAMB.

A young peasant girl, holding a new-born lamb wrapped in her apron, has just come through a gate at the left and is followed by her flock, the lamb's mother in the lead, stretching her head up toward the lamb; the girl is looking at the sheep; she wears a blue kerchief on her head, an orange-brown waist and a blue skirt; a large tree grows near the gate at the left and at the right the high bank behind the girl is covered with trees and shrubs. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1526. Pastel: H. 0.41 (16⅜ in.). W. 0.472 (18⅝ in.).

340 IN THE GARDEN.

On a sunny summer day, a young mother has taken her sewing out into the garden; she has seated herself on the ground at the foot of an apple tree and is looking off at the beehives near the garden hedge at the right; her work basket has tipped over, and its contents are scattered on the ground beside her; on the other side of the tree stands her little child, brandishing a switch to scare off the hens that are just appearing at the end of the garden path; in the background are the thatch-roofed farm buildings. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1532. Pastel: H. 0.315 (12 $\frac{3}{8}$ in.). W. 0.376 (14 $\frac{1}{16}$ in.).

SHEPHERDESSES WATCHING THE FLIGHT OF WILD GEESE. 341

Two shepherdesses stop their knitting to look at wild geese flying across the sky; one of them has laid her knitting on the bank and stands with her back to the spectator, her left hand stretched toward her companion, her right hand raised to shield her eyes; she wears a gray hood with a deep cape, a reddish-brown waist and a blue skirt; her companion, with her knitting in her hands, leans back and gazes upward at the geese; she wears a brown cape, a blue waist, and light skirt with a tinge of violet; she sits on a slight projection at the foot of a high bank of earth crowned by a dense thicket; nearby are the sheep, busily grazing on the scanty vegetation. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1521. Pastel: H. 0.574 (22 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.). W. 0.422 (16 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.).

SHEPHERDESS. 342

A young shepherdess leaning against a rock beside a big boulder shaded by young trees, is busily knitting, while her dog keeps an alert watch on the sheep in a field below the shady knoll; she wears a red kerchief on her head, a large blue hooded cape, and a violet-colored skirt; her staff leans against the rock at her side; in the background at the left, beyond the sunny field are red-roofed farm buildings. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1515. Pastel: H. 0.403 (15 $\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 0.286 (11 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.). Compare no. 300, supra.

WINTER EVENING. 343

A peasant's cottage, scantily lighted by a lamp hanging on a pole which stands in the middle of the room; the man is seated on a stool, with his back to the spectator, intent upon the basket he is making; his materials and tools are on the floor at his feet; facing him sits his young wife sewing on a white shirt; the baby is asleep in its cradle on the farther side of the light; on the hearth at the left sits a drowsy cat. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1513. Pastel: H. 0.444 (17½ in.). W. 0.541 (21⅙ in.).

344 TWO MEN DIGGING.

Two young peasants, almost in profile to the left, are turning in sod with long-handled wooden spades; the older one, whose expression is sullen, stands in front and to the right, pushing his spade into the ground; he wears a white shirt open at the neck, blue trousers, with suspenders hanging round his hips, and sabots; the younger one, of more patient aspect, is turning over a sod; he is dressed like his companion except that his trousers are yellow-brown; their coats, with their hats on them, are lying on the ground at the left; behind the two men the ground rises at the right to a little knoll; in the background at the left is a level field from which rises the white smoke of a group of bonfires. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1519. Pastel: H. 0.70 (27⅞ in.). W. 0.943 (37⅙ in.).

345 THE ROAD TO THE FOREST IN WINTER.

A sunless winter day, after a snowstorm; the road, which leads through an opening in a stone wall to the forest beyond, has not been broken out; the trees of the forest in the background stand thick and tall and bare; five crows are searching for food on the snow, and others are circling above the trees; at the left are snow-covered bushes and a group of tall trees. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1508. Pastel: H. 0.516 (20⅕ in.). W. 0.408 (16 in.).

346 MORNING TOILET.

A young peasant woman doing up her hair; she stands before a diamond-paned casement window, on which hangs a mirror; she wears a yellowish-brown waist and a dull blue apron which almost covers her dark skirt; on the window sill are a jug and a towel; in the background is a curtained bed, with the bedclothes thrown back; near the bed are a chair and a pair of sabots; high up on the wall is a clock. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1529. Pastel: H. 0.372 (14 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.). W. 0.258 (10 $\frac{1}{8}$ in.).

FARMYARD BY MOONLIGHT.

In the centre of a farmyard brilliantly lighted by the full moon, stands a dog, gazing fixedly at a cat which is climbing up a ladder to a window of the building at the left; in the foreground is a wheelbarrow partly loaded with firewood; a high wall at right angles to the house encloses the yard; in the wall is a large picket gate; at the right of the gate is a shed, near which poles are stacked; over the top of the shed rises a gaunt bare tree. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1520. Pastel: H. 0.708 (27 $\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 0.872 (34 $\frac{3}{8}$ in.).

FARMYARD IN WINTER.

348

A sunless winter day, the landscape covered with snow; under a thatched shelter built against a stone wall hens are roosting; two hens are pecking at the sheaves stacked at the right and one pecks at straw in the foreground; in the distance are farm buildings with white smoke rising straight from the chimneys. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1511. Pastel: H. 0.682 (26 $\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 0.881 (34 $\frac{11}{16}$ in.).

THE NOONDAY REST.

A man and a woman are stretched out asleep on sheaves of wheat in the shadow of a haystack; their sickles are lying on the ground at the left; the man lies on his back his arms crossed above his head; the woman has curled herself up a little and lies on her side; her head pillowed on her arms. Sheaves lie in piles over the field, and in the background near a haystack is a hay cart, beside which the unharnessed oxen are quietly eating; a noontide haze covers the golden harvest field. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1507. Pastel: H. 0.286 (11 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.). W. 0.417 (16 $\frac{3}{8}$ in.).

350 THE RABBIT WARREN.

A boulder-strewn knoll at dawn; in the bank in the foreground are two rabbit burrows, and on the bank are two rabbits, one at the left crouching in the grass, the other sitting up, his back to the spectator. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1522. Pastel: H. 0.495 (19 $\frac{1}{2}$ in.). W. 0.596 (23 $\frac{1}{2}$ in.).

351 DANDELIONS.

Roadside flowers flecked with sunlight; in the centre a dandelion plant, most of whose blossoms have gone to seed; in the grass at right and left are short-stemmed daisies and violets; bright green clover leaves and grass make a background for the flowers. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

Inv. 17.1512. Pastel: H. 0.406 (16 in.). W. 0.502 (19 $\frac{3}{4}$ in.).

352 PRIMROSES.

A primrose in sunlight full of small bright yellow blossoms, growing at the foot of a tree; the sunlight does not penetrate the thick growth of trees in the background. Signed in the lower right corner: J. F. Millet.

ARREST OF THE POACHER.

Four men are seated around a table in a peasant's cottage; the one on the side nearest the spectator is seen in profile to the left, his left arm thrown over the back of the chair; a game bag hangs on his chair; at the right, a ragged little boy with a hoop points with his left hand at this man as the one sought by the officer who stands near the table, holding a warrant in his right hand. Signed in the lower left corner: C. M. Webb, 1874.

Inv. 15.818. Canvas: H. 0.725 (28½ in.). W. 1.056 (41⅝ in.). Bequest of Caroline Louise Williams French, 1915.

WILSON, RICHARD. Born, Pinegas, Montgomeryshire, 1713; died, Llanberis, North Wales, 1782. Pupil of Thomas Wright.

ITALIAN LAKE.

460

At the left a group of tall trees near the edge of a lake; at the right along the lake a road bordered by trees; in the foreground three men conversing near some ancient reliefs; on the farther side of the lake ruined buildings at the foot of a hill. A rolling plain stretches away to the mountains on the horizon.

Inv. 94.171. Canvas: H. 0.40 (15¾ in.). W. 0.533 (21 in.). Bequest of Mrs. Turner Sargent, 1894.

TIVOLI AND THE CAMPAGNA ROMANA.

View down a valley between a high wooded cliff on the left, and low hills on the right; on the crest of the cliff a house, a church, and a ruined temple; a small cascade falls into the stream below. In the foreground, a man with two dogs is talking to a woman seated on the rocks, knitting; near her is a basket covered with a white cloth; at the right are three high trees. In the background the Campagna stretches away to the Alban Hills.

Inv. 03.606. Canvas: H. 0.99 (39 in.). W. 1.255 (49½ in.)
Bequest of Mrs. Samuel Dennis Warren, 1903.

462 LANDSCAPE; attributed to Wilson.

At the right are high jagged rocks, from which falls a cascade; at the left a broad undulating plain stretches to distant mountains; in the foreground is a galloping horseman. Cloudy sky.

Inv. 17.586. Canvas: H. 1.25 (49¼ in.). W. 1.75 (69 in.).
Gift of Denman Waldo Ross, 1917.

PORTRAIT OF MRS. FLETCHER WEBSTER.

463

Half-length portrait of a young woman, full face, with bust turned slightly to the right; her light brown hair is tied with a narrow blue ribbon and falls in curls on either cheek; she wears a low-necked blue dress, and around her shoulders a crimson cloak trimmed with ermine. Dark background.

Inv. 91.242. Canvas: H. 0.757 (29 $\frac{13}{16}$ in.). W. 0.637 (25 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.). Gift of James William Paige, 1891.

PORTRAIT OF JOHN ODIN.

464

Half-length seated figure of an elderly gentleman turned slightly to the right; he is dressed in black, with a high white stock. Dark brown background.

Inv. 15.3. Canvas: H. 0.768 (30 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.). W. 0.642 (25 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.). Bequest of Anna F. Odin, 1915.

ALEXANDER, JOHN WHITE. Born, Allegheny, Pa., 1856; died, New York, 1915. Studied in Munich, Paris, and Florence.

ISABELLA AND THE POT OF BASIL.

465

Isabella stands in profile to right, leaning against a gray-green wall and clasping with both hands a brownish-gray pot which stands in a niche at the level of her shoulder; near the pot lie some fading white flowers. She wears a flowing white gown with a black scarf hanging from her shoulder to the floor; her eyes are closed. Behind her at the left is a pale lavender curtain. Signed in the lower left corner: John Alexander, 97.

Inv. 98.181. Canvas: H. 1.915 (75 $\frac{3}{8}$ in.). W. 0.911 (35 $\frac{7}{8}$ in.). Gift of Ernest Wadsworth Longfellow, 1898.

The story of Isabella is told in Boccaccio's "Decameron" and in Keats' poem "Isabella or the Pot of Basil." She hid the head of her lover, who was murdered by her brothers in a wood near Florence, in a pot in which she planted sweet basil.

ALLEN, THOMAS. Born, St. Louis, Missouri, 1849; lives in Boston. Pupil of the Royal Academy, Düsseldorf.

466 PORTAL OF THE MISSION OF SAN JOSÉ, TEXAS.

A monumental rococo doorway, with figures of saints at the sides and of the Virgin above; the panelled doors have sagged, so that they do not close; on the base of the jamb at the left sits a man wrapped in a blue and yellow striped mantle; near him are five sheep. Signed in the lower right corner: Thomas Allen.

URIEL IN THE SUN.

Full-length figure of heroic size, seated on the ground, his body turned slightly to the left and his head to the right; his left knee is raised, and his left foot planted on the ground; his left arm rests on the rim of a shield and his right hand holds a lance; he wears a helmet, a sombre colored tunic, and a drapery over his knees which leaves his lower legs bare. Golden brown background.

Inv. 404.08. Canvas: H. 2.48 (97 $\frac{5}{8}$ in.). W. 1.98 (78 in.). Deposited by the Allston Trust Fund, through Richard Henry Dana, 1908.

Painted in London in 1818; obtained the first prize in the British Gallery that year, and the Directors of the British Institution made the Artist a gift of £150. Bought by the Marquis of Stafford in the same year and sold at Christie's, in 1908. M. F. A. Bulletin, VI (1908), pp. 42-43, illus.

474 ELIJAH FED BY THE RAVENS.

Near the foot of a dead gnarled tree in the foreground, Elijah kneels in prayer; he wears a green-blue tunic, and a drab mantle; immediately in front of him a large raven is flying down with a loaf of bread in its beak; another raven, also holding a loaf of bread in its beak, is perched on the tree; behind the tree is a pool into which empties a small stream coming down from the hills. The landscape is wild and barren, with a few trees in the plain stretching to the left; at the right are steep jagged hills; the sky is nearly filled with black and white clouds. Painted, 1818.

Inv. 70.1. Canvas: H. 1.242 ($48\frac{7}{8}$ in.). W. 1.842 ($72\frac{1}{2}$ in.). Gift of Mrs. Samuel Hooper and Alice Hooper, 1870. This painting was the first gift made to the Museum.

475 RISING OF A THUNDER STORM AT SEA.

Dark thunder clouds cover the sky at the left and extend along the horizon; the water is almost black; a sailboat in the foreground and a schooner in the middle distance are battling against the heavy sea.

Inv. 78.46. Canvas: H. 0.978 ($38\frac{1}{2}$ in.). W. 1.295 (51 in.). Purchased from the heirs of Eliza Parker, 1878.

476 LANDSCAPE.

Tall trees grow on the high bank of a pond in the foreground; in the distance is the sea; a man on a white horse is riding into the pond from the left.

Inv. 00.505. Canvas: H. 0.47 ($18\frac{1}{2}$ in.). W. 0.622 ($24\frac{1}{2}$ in.). Bequest of Edmund Dwight, 1900.

477 ISAAC OF YORK; unfinished.

Bust of an elderly man in three-quarter view to the left; he has a full white beard, his hair hangs on his shoulders, and he wears a dark brown skull cap. Dark background. Only the head is finished.

BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST.

Belshazzar is seated at the left upon his throne under the seven-branched candlestick; near him stands the queen, supported by two Egyptian female slaves; the prophet Daniel stands nearly in the centre of the foreground, pointing with his left hand to the handwriting upon the wall; on the right are four figures, the astrologers and soothsayers who were "unable to read the writing or interpret the meaning thereof." Between them and the prophet, and somewhat farther back, is a group in shadow, whose devout postures indicate that they are Jews; one of the women kneels in an attitude of reverence, while another reaches forward to touch the garment of the prophet; behind these, and forming a part of the same group, is a youth in armor. The middle distance is occupied by the banquet table, behind which sit horror-stricken guests; large columns support a gallery filled with spectators in attitudes of wonder and excitement; at the head of a flight of steps in the centre is a large idol, brilliantly lighted. Unfinished.

Inv. Ath. 11. Canvas: H. 3.66 (144 $\frac{1}{8}$ in.). W. 4.88 (192 $\frac{1}{8}$ in.). Deposited by the Boston Athenaeum, 1876.

Inv. 03.1033. Canvas: H. 1.752 (69 in.). W. 2.245 (88 $\frac{3}{8}$ in.). Purchased, Edward Ingersoll Browne Fund, 1903. M. F. A. Bulletin, I (1903), p. 5. The following is a résumé of this article:

Mr. Izard was a resident of South Carolina; his wife was Miss Alice Delancey of New York. Copley met them in Italy in the winter of 1774, and painted this double portrait in Rome. It is the first group painted by him, and he then considered it his masterpiece. Owing to the troubles which preceded the American Revolution Mr. Izard did not take the picture, and Copley carried it to England the following autumn. In 1825, ten years after Copley's death, Mr. Charles Manigault, grandson of Mr. Izard, purchased the picture of Mrs. Copley and it remained in the family until it was sold to the Museum.

586 WATSON AND THE SHARK.

The painting depicts the rescue from a shark in the harbor of Havana of Brook Watson, afterwards Lord Mayor of London, who lost a leg in the adventure. He described the incident to Copley, when a fellow passenger on the voyage to England. Two men in a small rowboat are attempting to save a naked swimmer, one of whose legs has been bitten off, from a shark which is about to snap at him again; there are seven other men in the boat, some are rowing; one, standing with his foot on the gunwale is aiming a harpoon at the shark, while a negro beside him has thrown a rope to the swimmer. In the background, at right and left, are frigates and the fortifications of the harbor.
